Introduction by Jaap Ubbels, chair

18.15 – 19.30 Documentary film: A picture to remember. Director: Olga Chernyk

This highly awarded documentary at the IDFA-festival 2023 starts and ends with a visual and auditory imagination of the brutal Russian air raids on Kyiv in the early morning of February 24th, 2022. Though warned before, Ukraine was not ready and a fragile equilibrium within a history of traumatization collapsed into a nightmare. In the documentary, the voice of the author leads us through decades of family archives as well as the events of the Russian war against Ukraine since 2014. The elliptical and mosaic nature of memory is of the sort that cannot be destroyed or taken away. This provides the main character with the strength to move forward. Visual poetic and metaphoric shots of the family history in Donetsk and Kiev forge an emotional link to the future.

19.30 – 20.00 Discussion

20.00 – 20.30 Coffee break

20.30 – 21.00 Investing in future: psychoanalytic work with adolescents in the time of war

Presenter: Maria Budya (currently living in Veghel, the Netherlands)

In the face of such traumatic global events as war, adolescents with their disturbed, fragile and emotionally unstable psychic world are the most vulnerable. This paper is an attempt to investigate in clinical work with adolescent patients (with different backgrounds and current circumstances but all traumatized by war) how our psychoanalytic work can help them to recover their developmental abilities. How to help adolescents to fulfill their developmental tasks, investing in their (and our Ukrainian) future?

21.15 -21.30 Discussion

Saturday January 18th 2025

09.30 Reception

10.00 -10.45 How we played under fire: chronicles of the research teamwork

Anna Kravtsova (Charkiv)

In this paper the creation, goals and methods of the Ukrainian Research Group of Child Psychoanalytic Psychotherapists are presented. The group process of traumatized psychoanalysts working with traumatized children and their traumatized parents under external fire and bombardments, suffering of many losses and internal, emotional shocks, will be analyzed. The aim of the psychoanalytic research group is to preserve the ability to think, fantasize and play. Also, to preserve the very ability of human hearts and minds to contain and to symbolize something extremely valuable. Some results of psychoanalytical work in the group will be presented. During an enduring war, this work has a profound clinical impact for bridging desperateness into creating a future.

10.45 Comments by Wouter Gomperts

11.00 -11.30 Book presentation and discussion

11.30 -12.00 Coffee break

12.00-12.30 The experiences of forced migration in times of war

Maryna Kuznetsova (currently living in IJsselstein, the Netherlands)

In her paper Maryna Kuznetsova reflects her work with Ukrainian families in the Netherlands. All Ukrainian families were unprepared and not ready for a forced emigration. All suffered under the same events, but their experiences, even within one family, were sometimes quite different. The paper focusses on the sense profound loneliness, especially in traumatized children struggling with feelings of incomprehensibility, injustice, envy. How to help these children in creating hope for a new future?

12.30 – 12.45 Comments by Nelly Vlietstra

12.45 – 13.15 Discussion

13.15 – 14.00 Lunch

14.00 – 15.30 Case presentations by Ukrainian psychotherapists
